The seminar is free for all ticket holders at the show.

Strictly Sail Pacific is the West Coast's largest all-sailboat show, set for April 10–13 in Jack London Square, Oakland.

The use of typical sailboat hardware to create railings has become a new design craze in the outdoor living industry and Suncor Stainless/Atlantis Rail have been helping people create unique spaces with cable railing for years. This seminar will explain how to safely create un-obstructive railings and supply the knowledge to help save time and money in doing so. "Cable railing is not for everyone but, if you have a view, it might be the only one. Come see how it's done and get your questions answered."

Strictly Sail Pacific will feature hundreds of sailboats, as well as gear, accessories and hardware. Boats of every size will be on display, including high-end yachts, multihulls, sleek racers and daysailers. In addition to seminars, the show will also feature interactive workshops, free sailboat rides and on-the-water training classes.
